The Present and Future of Spiritual Leadership

Based on the findings of a large-scale research project undertaken by Pepperdine and the Barna Group, David Kinnaman will reveal the state of spiritual leadership in America today—and consider the future for current faith leaders and those who will answer the calling to a pastoral vocation. What are their greatest challenges in ministry, for family life, and when it comes to their own emotional, intellectual, and spiritual growth? How effective are their churches for catalyzing transformation in lives and communities? And how are faith leaders perceived and misperceived by the wider culture?

David Kinnaman is the president and majority owner of the Barna Group, a visionary research and resource company located in Ventura, California. He is the author of two best selling books, unChristian and You Lost Me, which focus on the spiritual lives of teens and 20-somethings.

Under his leadership, the Barna Team created the FRAMES project—brief meaningful books on contemporary culture. During Kinnaman’s 19 years at the firm, he has supervised or directed interviews with more than 400,000 individuals and leaders. He and his wife Jill have three children, Emily, Annika, and Zack.

From the Killing Fields To the Mission Field

Sokhom Hun suffered yet survived the brutality of Pol Pot’s Khmer Rouge (1975-1979) in which over 3 million Cambodians died. Hun lost 16 members of his family, including his father, who was killed in front of him. Most Cambodians who found refuge in the U.S. and other countries have little desire to return to Cambodia. Hun converted to Christianity from Buddhism in 1981. After years of Christian service in the U.S., he returned to Cambodia in 2009 to serve as a full-time missionary. Hun’s life underscores the power of God’s forgiveness.

Message from the President

The entire University community is honored to have you with us. Some of you are experiencing this remarkable annual gathering for the first time while some others have not missed the Pepperdine Bible Lectures in decades. In any event, I know you will bless us with your presence and in the many ways that you will contribute to the spirit of this event. May our God be honored in all that we say and do.

If I may, I would like to invite you to come along as we take a walk with our brother James this week. If we will listen carefully, each of us will hear him as he reminds us that "FaithWorks." Most all of us have learned to lean into a trusting relationship with God through his Son; indeed, faith works and it is the most dependable element of our lives.

A working faith is important to all of us and, especially to today's university student. Gone are Sunday-only Christians attending worship out of a sense of duty. Replacing them are those who choose to live out their faith through service in locations as close as the foot of our campus, extending to faraway unsettled corners of the world. Those of us serving in Christian higher education may not change the world, but I think we are educating those who will. That is my prayer.

In the fourth chapter of his book, James writes: "Draw near to God and he will draw near to you." Let us use this week, this campus, and this fellowship to draw nearer to God. Whether early in the morning as the beauty of the day unfolds, or late at night after a long, thought-provoking day, let God draw near to us as we draw ever closer to Him.

May this week and its precious moments be etched indelibly in each of our lives. These Pepperdine University 72nd annual Bible Lectures are meant to call us to action and to a deeper faith. Join us as we take a walk with James.

Message from Mike Cope

I still have my old Bible from high school days—a treasured old King James Version given to me by my parents. It’s interesting to me to leaf through it to see where the pages are most worn.

There are sections of the Old Testament that are like new, and the pages of Revelation are almost stuck together.

But when I turn to James, the pages nearly fall out. Verses are underlined, and notes fill the narrow margins.

I grew up learning to love the book of James. Perhaps some of that wasn’t healthy: a constant focus on works without being anchored in the security of God’s grace.

But now as I return to James, confident of God’s amazing grace, I marvel again at the power of his words: a rebuke of any dumbed-down “discipleship” that is reluctant to put faith into action.

James believes in religion—at least religion in the proper sense of living out one’s faith. We often hear, “I’m spiritual but not religious.” James might encourage a bit less “spirituality” and a little more old-time religion (as defined, e.g., in 1:27).

In Bunyan’s Pilgrim’s Progress, one of the interesting characters Christian meets is Mr. Talkative—a garrulous soul who is more interested in discussing faith than in putting faith into practice.

To people like Mr. Talkative, James urges that they “keep a tight rein on their tongues.” Less talk, more action.

What a timely challenge this is for the church today when, relishing the grace of God (as we should), we can easily become allergic to any talk of works. James is a wonderful antidote to this tendency as he reminds us that faith means following the example and teaching of Jesus—lived out in this world!

We look forward to having you join us on Pepperdine’s beautiful campus as we—in addition to worshiping and reconnecting with friends!—enter into the challenging world of James where faith is expressed in loving action.

International Bible Lectures Chorale

Join with a hundred beautiful voices from around the globe for this new chorale experience!

A selection of songs will be distributed months before the concert so that you have time to rehearse your part. The performance will take place in Smothers Theatre on Thursday evening, with rehearsal on Wednesday evening.

Directed by Sherdale Smith, a vocal instructor for aspiring artists and community choirs, and minister of music for Cypress Church of Christ in Cypress, California.

Born in Brookhaven, Mississippi, Sherdale Smith is the second of four children. He was nurtured by his grandmother, “Mama Gussie” in the “woods” of his small town. Mama Gussie sang in the choir at the Center Street Church of Christ, and Sherdale would stand alongside her every Sunday while she sang her testimonial song, “Can’t Nobody Do Me Like Jesus” and each week she said to him, “Come on, son, and help Grandma sing this song.” Without hesitation, her grandson would lend his voice, and it was there that Sherdale was introduced to music.

Sherdale has lent his voice, direction, and education of music to an eclectic community of musicians and organizations, including TAKE 6, the Norwood Kids Foundation, BET Gospel Celebration, Los Angeles Preparatory School of Performing Arts, A Place Called Home, LAUSD after-school program “The Harmony Project,” and the Pepperdine University Gospel Choir. He has performed at the MidAmerica Productions annual classical concert at Carnegie Hall, with the Glory Gospel Singers in Japan for a 19-concert holiday music tour, and provided vocal arrangements for The Three Tenors.

Thursday, 9–10 PM
(Rehearsal on Wednesday, 9 PM)

Registration is required in order to participate.
Gene Appel, senior pastor of Eastside Christian Church, Anaheim, California, began his ministry as a 20 year old intern at Eastside. After moving on to pastor two of the largest churches in the nation—Central Christian Church, Las Vegas, Nevada, and Willow Creek Community Church, South Barrington, Illinois—he returned in 2008 to lead Eastside into its next dynamic chapter. Since that time Eastside has experienced rapid growth, and in fall 2012, relocated to a new campus in Anaheim. In 2013 and 2014 Eastside was named among the 100 fastest growing churches in America.

Lipscomb University theology professor Lee Camp brings Nashville’s “Best Local Variety Show” for a return performance to the Pepperdine Bible Lectures for an opening night session in the Fieldhouse. The Tennessean says Tokens is “amazing. It’s amazing that [Tokens] has integrated music, humor, and scholarship into something so seamlessly entertaining.” The Nashville Scene calls Tokens a “grass-kicking shredfest” that is a “huge success,” with “genre-bending creativity.” And Sojourners opined that “…if A Prairie Home Companion ever moved south and got religion—or at least went to divinity school—it might look a lot like TOKENS.”

Few things are as important as pouring into the lives of those who will lead our congregations in the years ahead. Pepperdine University has long been committed to raising up the next generation of Christian leaders, but this year marks the launch of a special division of the Church Relations office dedicated to that task.

JEFF WALLING has joined the Pepperdine family as the founding director of the Youth Leadership Initiative. Through events, online training, and focused mentoring of young leaders, this new project will bless churches all across the country as it connects Christian teens with Pepperdine.

Two major projects are already underway:

Next Gen Preacher Search is a national, digital search for future preachers and teachers in high school and colleges across the country. Forty candidates were selected to be paired with a mentor and receive personal coaching at the NEXT GEN PREACHERS TRAINING SEMINAR in January. The four finalists will be sharing their presentations onstage at the 2015 Pepperdine Bible Lectures. Visit nextgenpreachersearch.com.

E2 Ministry Network Resourcing and encouraging those who serve in youth ministry is a method of investing in our churches’ future. The E2 Ministry Network is a resourcing and support system for youth ministers to bring both encouragement and equipping. Through regional learning events and online teaching resources, this project is coming along side those who serve our teens with tools and training.

SLIDING VS DECIDING
(COHABITATION, COMMITMENT, AND MARRIAGE)

From hooking up, to living together or bearing children out of wedlock, life-altering relationship transitions frequently happen now before commitment matures between two young adults, weakening the formation of commitment for marriage and family. This workshop focuses on how to help unmarried individuals and married couples succeed in marriage. Attention will be given to understanding the cohabitation dynamic, given that 70 percent of couples marrying now live together prior to marriage, a trend that is also growing within the church population.

Scott Stanley, PhD, is a research professor and codirector of the Center for Marital and Family Studies at the University of Denver. He has published widely, with core research interests including relationship commitment, couple development, and the prevention of marital distress. He has coauthored or authored various books, including The Power of Commitment and A Lasting Promise, and writes a popular blog at slidingsvdeciding.com.

Wednesday, 8:30–10:15 AM

CONNECTING YOUNG ADULTS AND THE CHURCH
(RELATIONSHIP IQ INSTRUCTOR TRAINING)

Relationship IQ equips you to connect meaningfully with young adults and have life giving conversations about faith and relationships. Come receive training and certification in how to use rIQ as both an evangelism and discipleship tool in your church. At the end of this three-hour training you will have a Relationship IQ Leader’s Manual (including 42 detailed curriculum lessons), a vision for walking alongside young adults, and next steps for ministering to the young adults in your church. Become a person of hope and healing in the lives of young adults. For more information, visitrelationshipiq.org. Continuing education hours available.*

Hannah Parmelee is the Relationship IQ director at Pepperdine University’s Boone Center for the Family and author of the Relationship IQ Leader’s Manual. She earned a BA in psychology from Pepperdine University and a masters’ degree in marriage and family therapy from Fuller Theological Seminary. She is also a speaker and teacher at churches, conferences, and academic institutions on young adult relationships, marriage, healthy sexuality, parenting, and relationship with God.

Wednesday, 1:30–4:30 PM Cost is $150 a person. Registration is required.

SEXUAL INTEGRITY IN A FALLEN WORLD

This workshop will address the prevalence of sexual addiction in our culture, both secular and Christian. Participants will be able to identify the characteristics of sex addiction. A model of healing and intervention for individuals suffering from addiction, their spouses, and for couples will be outlined. Particular attention will be paid to how church leaders can address these issues in local congregations.

Mark Laaser, MDiv, PhD, and Debbie Laaser, MA, LMFT, are the founders of Faithful & True, a leading Christian treatment center for sexual addiction and relational betrayal. Together, Mark and Debbie have authored coauthored over a dozen books on the subject of sexual addiction and relationship issues, including their highly-acclaimed book The Seven Desires of Every Heart. They are the leaders of intensive workshops for men, their spouses, and couples who are struggling with sexual purity, infidelity, and relational issues. They are internationally known as leading experts in the field of sexual health and relational wellness.

Thursday, 8:30–10:15 AM
SENIORS IN MINISTRY
(RESPECTING, SERVING, AND MOBILIZING)

Be equipped to facilitate ministry with seniors. Topics will cover service, friendships, family, and issues such as health, caregiving, and grief and loss. The class will be pertinent to people of all ages interested in or working with senior ministry. It will also be applicable to seniors to better understand and navigate their season of life. Class topics will explore senior adult development, helpful counseling skills, specific ministry programs, and organizational strategies. A certificate of attendance is available.

Susan Giboney is a retired professor from Pepperdine University where she taught human development and education. She is a certified family life educator and has devoted recent years studying issues for senior citizens. She has experience in caregiving, grief and loss, and ministry in lifespan issues.

Ed Gray is professor of counseling at Harding School of Theology. He has counseled individuals and couples for over 35 years. He is an approved supervisor and clinical member of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy. He is the author of several “12 Conversations” programs and travels across the country speaking on marriage mentoring and the power of story.

Thursday, 1:30–4:30 PM  Registration is preferred.

THE NEW ADOLESCENT, STICKY FAITH, AND THE CHURCH

Building on the work of Sticky Faith, this workshop will help churches develop the holistic ecclesiology to become truly “intergenerational” and meet the spiritual needs of adolescents. Two issues that he will address are adolescent culture and development (and why this matters) and what it means to be theologically “intergenerational.”

Chap Clark is professor and chair of youth, family and culture at Fuller Theological Seminary. He is the author or coauthor of two dozen books (including Sticky Faith and Hurt 2.0: Inside the World of Today’s Teenagers), and a recognized leader in family, adolescent and emerging adult culture and development.

Friday, 8:30–10:15 AM

FAMILIES AND FORGIVENESS
(HEALING WOUNDS IN THE FAMILY)

Forgiveness is often thought of as a “letting go” of pain, anger, and bitterness. In this workshop, participants learn that forgiveness is not so much about “letting go” as it is about “putting back” and restoring as much love and trustworthiness to the relationships as possible. Using the Restoration Therapy Model and Christ’s model of forgiveness, participants will understand the need for love and trustworthiness in identity and safety. This workshop teaches interventions that help individuals and families heal through attention to love, justice, and power. Continuing education hours available.*

Terry Hargrave, PhD is nationally recognized for his pioneering work with intergenerational families. He has authored numerous professional articles and 11 books including Restoration Therapy: Understanding and Guiding Healing in Marriage and Family Therapy and The Essential Humility of Marriage: Honoring the Third Identity in Couple Therapy. He has presented nationally and internationally on the concepts of marriage, aging, and forgiveness. He is a professor of marriage and family therapy at Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, California, and is president and in practice at Amarillo Family Institute, Inc.

Friday, 1:30–4:30 PM  Registration is preferred.

*Course meets the qualification for 3 hours of continuing education credit for MFTs and/or LCSWs as required by the California Board of Behavioral Science. Pepperdine University is approved by the American Psychological Association to sponsor continuing education of psychologists (Pepperdine University, PCE 2949). Pepperdine maintains responsibility for the program and its content. Attendee cancellations received one week in advance will receive a full refund of course fee. CEs an additional $25, payable at the door.
Welcome Home, Alumni!

As you are called back to this unique place to enjoy the enlightenment of the 72nd Annual Pepperdine Bible Lectures, we hope that you will enjoy fellowship with other alumni who have passed through these halls. This campus which holds so much history, personally and collectively, beckons you to share a treasure of memories over a piece of pie and coffee. We hope to see you!

All alumni are welcome!
Welcome to Pepperdine!

While you are here this week, it is my hope, in the words of James, that you will “approach God and God will approach you.” There’s something about the ocean and the mountain that remind us of God’s nearness. And there’s also something powerful about lifting our voices together in song, learning from challenging teachers, and experiencing the gift of community.

Our text for this week, the letter of James, is a text that makes sense not only as individuals, but above all, as a community that’s serious about the practice of faith. Growing communally in the practice of faith is real all year long at Pepperdine, as we live into George Pepperdine’s dream of helping young men and women build a foundation of Christian character and faith. While you are here, I hope you will meet students, faculty, and staff who can attest that there’s a strong commitment among us, to wisdom that comes from heaven. We try to model what it means for wisdom to be “first of all pure; then peace-loving, considerate, submissive, full of mercy and good fruit, impartial, and sincere” (James 3:17).

As you fill the space that is usually occupied by students—in the cafeteria, residence halls, fieldhouse, and classrooms, I invite you to fill this campus with prayer for Pepperdine’s ongoing commitments to balancing faith and work in all our endeavors. Your partnership is deeply appreciated.

Blessings,
Sara Barton

A junior AWP scholar majoring in business administration with a minor in nonprofit management, Kiah Fuller is from San Bernardino, California, and she grew up at the Mt. View Church of Christ with her parents and two siblings. Kiah was originally drawn toward Pepperdine because it’s a prestigious school, not too far from or close to home, and has an excellent business division. Most of her free time is taken up with Pepperdine Step Team practices and performances and her involvement with the local West Ventura Church of Christ, as well as with her student employment in the registrar’s office. Her dream in life is to own and cook at her own restaurant that benefits a nonprofit to fight world hunger. Fun facts about Kiah? She loves to cook; she’s passionate about children; and she studied in Florence, Italy, and traveled to over 10 countries while abroad!

Changing the World as You Find It

What good is it, my brothers and sisters, if someone claims to have faith but has no deeds? Can such faith save them? Suppose a brother or a sister is without clothes and daily food. If one of you says to them, “Go in peace; keep warm and well fed,” but does nothing about their physical needs, what good is it? In the same way, faith by itself, if it is not accompanied by action, is dead. —James 2:14-17

Natakunda, a 16-year-old Ugandan girl, gave birth to a weak and sickly child. She and the baby lived with her grandmother who was alcoholic and abusive. When Natakunda tried to seek medical care for her child, her grandmother prevented it. One day, while her grandmother was away, the child’s condition worsened and the baby died. When she returned, Natakunda’s grandmother accused her of killing the child and the grief-stricken young mother was imprisoned for a crime she did not commit.

She was immediately sent to a remand home for young criminals awaiting trial. With dozens of other children, Natakunda lived in a large, hot, dark room with little electricity and no plumbing. With few lawyers in Uganda to represent these children, many await trial for several years.

Jim Gash, law professor and shepherd at the University Church of Christ here at Pepperdine, can’t stop thinking about Natakunda and others like her. Gash has traveled to Uganda over a dozen times in the last five years with a delegation of Pepperdine law students who advocate for these kids in the courts. (In fact, he and others at the School of Law have expanded their legal work with the Ugandan Supreme Court to help reform their judicial system.)

On one trip to Uganda, Pepperdine alumnus, Jay Milbrandt, author of the book Go + Do, accompanied Jim, and others, to work with the kids. To Milbrandt, the goal is not to change the world, but to change the world as you find it. “When it comes to our desire to go and do, the first thing we must realize is that it’s not about changing the world,” Milbrandt says. “Instead, it’s about changing ourselves. And the great thing is that if we allow God to change us, then along the way, he allows us to change the lives of those we encounter. It always starts with us—with God working in us.”

Milbrandt’s advice is helpful to those of us who ache over the suffering we see in the world, but have neither the platform nor resources to respond to huge, systemic problems, as he, Gash, and others have done in Uganda. As you consider the book of James this week, and especially his radical call to accompany your faith with action, open your eyes and heart to the world near you as much as the world far from you. Change the world as you find it.

On behalf of the team that imagined and prepared the 2015 Pepperdine Bible Lectures, welcome to FaithWorks. It is our prayer that your faith journey will be strengthened through the many classes, workshops, and worship experiences offered. But, be forewarned: This conference has been designed to confront you. Like the book of James, it will challenge your attitude and assumptions and will demand that you reassess your life’s response to Jesus.

Telling the Truth
(The Power of Confession and Absolution in a Community of Sinners and Saints)

Pepperdine welcomes back former student Nadia Bolz-Weber, who attended after growing up at the Eastside Church of Christ in Colorado Springs, Colorado. She is the founding pastor of House for All Sinners and Saints in Denver, Colorado. She is the author of the New York Times best-selling theological memoir Pastrix: The Cranky, Beautiful Faith of a Sinner and Saint. She has been featured in the Washington Post, NPR’s Morning Edition, The Daily Beast, and on CNN.

Thursday, 8:30–10:15 AM

To Be Gay and Christian
(Wrestling with Faith and Sexuality)

Sally Gary is the founder and director of CenterPeace, a nonprofit ministry dedicated to providing safe places for men and women who experience same-sex attraction. A former high school speech and debate coach, trial lawyer, and communication professor at Abilene Christian University, Gary is a teacher at heart. CenterPeace partners with churches to host seminars and workshops for church leaders and families to better understand same-sex attraction and learn more effective ways to open conversations about homosexuality.

Wednesday, 8:30–10:15 AM

Angelic Troublemakers
(Spiritual Warfare for Progressives and Doubters)

Richard Beck is professor and chair of the Department of Psychology at Abilene Christian University. He is the author of several books including Unclean, The Authenticity of Faith, and The Slavery of Death, and has a popular blog Experimental Theology.

Friday, 8:30–10:15 AM
Lost in the Right Direction

(Doers of the Word in the Workplace)

Can the call of James survive in our cubicles? Join us for a series with examples of how a few millennials are answering this question in their professional lives. Walk away with lessons for laity in how the book of James might help us become doers of the word in the workplace.

Host: David Todd Harmon, Chief Operating Officer of Mana Nutrition  9:30–10:15 AM

A Conversation With

Jason Russell is cofounder of Invisible Children. After graduating in 2002 from the University of Southern California’s film school with a degree in cinema production, he led a trip to east and central Africa and found himself in the middle of a decade-long war. He made a promise to a boy named Jacob to help end that war, returned home to make a film about it, which then turned into a nonprofit still in pursuit of that promise today. He is married to his childhood sweetheart and best friend Danica and they have two children, Gavin Danger and Everley Darling.  Wednesday

Designer Stephen Kenn has long been inspired by the simple design aesthetic of the mid-century era and the stories inherent in vintage military fabrics. Using sustainable materials and practicing responsible manufacturing are essential parts of his work. Stephen lives in downtown Los Angeles with his wife Beks where they roll up their garage door each Monday morning to serve coffee for friends.  Thursday

Richard Beck is professor and chair of the Department of Psychology at Abilene Christian University. He is the author of several books including Unclean, The Authenticity of Faith, and The Slavery of Death, and has a popular blog Experimental Theology.  Friday

Pepperdine welcomes the Sacra Pagina exhibit from the Green Collection, the world’s largest private collection of rare biblical texts and artifacts.

Latin for “the sacred page,” this exhibit of rare biblical texts and artifacts from the Green Collection explores the various methods in which the Bible is researched in academia and the greater global community.

Tuesday–Friday, 9 AM–6 PM
Surfboard Room, Payson Library
Free and open to all Bible Lectures attendees

For more information about Sacra Pagina, the Green Collection, and the Museum of the Bible, visit museumofthebible.org.
Touch A Life Foundation develops creative ways to bring healing and empowerment to those who are broken, exploited, and at-risk around the world. Specifically, Touch A Life operates a long-term rehabilitative care in Ghana, West Africa, for children who have been rescued out of slavery. The organization utilizes creative outlets like art therapy and customized holistic care plans to engage the children in a restorative, healing process. Touch A Life’s team believe that by healing and empowering these formerly trafficked children, they will be able to share their stories and testimonies in order to end modern-day slavery once and for all.

CHURCH LEADERS TRACK

“The Hardest Thing I’ve Ever Done”
with Grady King and Jon Mullican

Without question, leading the church today is extremely difficult, requiring from leaders all they can give. Church leaders need encouragement and strengthening to well lead the church toward its God-given future.

This workshop will probe the needs of each leader and provide counsel on how to address the most pressing issues impinging on their specific church. The presence of multiple facilitators will make this session personal and meaningful. Each participant will leave with options of how to move through the coming year.

FRIDAY
1:30-4:30 PM

Pepperdine View Teen Program

1:30-4:30 PM daily

Howard A. White Center (HAWC)

Classes, service projects, and a day at the beach hosted by Christian and Kathrine Pimentel

Preregister online.
The Pepperdine campus is set into the side of a mountain overlooking the Pacific Ocean. Stairs and views are plentiful. Shuttles and vans will be in service throughout the week to help you maneuver the campus. (See the map for shuttle stop locations.)

Wheelchair transportation is available upon request.

If you do travel by car, please park in designated guest areas only, noted on the map in gray, since this is a regular work week for our faculty and staff.

AIRPORT SHUTTLES

We recommend an airport shuttle service instead of a rental car due to the limited amount of parking on campus.

PRIME TIME SHUTTLE
800.733.8267 / 800. RED.VANS
On-line reservations: primetimeshuttle.com

ROAD RUNNER SHUTTLE
800.247.7919
Online reservations: rrshuttle.com

REFUND POLICY

Fees for housing and meals are refundable up to one week prior to the event. Refunds for programs and excursions are given up to 24 hours prior to that event.

FOOD SERVICES

Waves Cafe will be open for breakfast, lunch, and dinner each day.
Cafeteria prices: $9 breakfast, $10 lunch, $14 dinner (half price for children)
Breakfast/Lunch ticket $60. Children, 12 and under, $30.
(Includes 4 breakfasts, 3 lunches, beginning with Wednesday breakfast.)
Pre-ordered meal tickets will be in your packet at check-in.

Other dining options are available throughout main campus.

ON-CAMPUS HOUSING

We are pleased to offer student housing for our Bible Lectures guests. To see photos and details of housing options, visit pepperdine.edu/biblelectures and select Housing.

- There are no microwaves or refrigerators in the dormitory or Towers rooms.
- There is no air conditioning in the rooms. Breezes from the Pacific are usually sufficient.
- All beds will be filled. If a roommate or suitemate is not requested, guests of the same gender will be assigned.
- Wheelchair-accessible rooms are available in Towers, Lovernich, and Drescher.
- All guests must be checked out by 10 AM on Saturday.
- Keys and linens must be returned at checkout. Do not leave them in the room. There is a $10 charge for all unreturned keys and a $40 charge for unreturned linens.

CHILDREN/TEENS

Families may purchase beds for their children at the listed price. All beds will be filled, so please make arrangements accordingly. To keep costs down, children may also sleep on the floor of their parents' room at no charge. Please bring your own bedding for those on the floor.

DORMITORY

$140 per person for four nights
(4 rooms, 2 beds in each, shared bath, common living room)

TOWERS

$175 per person for four nights
(2 beds, shared “Jack and Jill” bath, no single registrants please)
Guests must register two or four people per suite.

LOVERNICH APTS

$200 per person for four nights
(2 rooms, 2 beds in each, shared bath, kitchen, living room)

DRESCHER APTS

$250 per person for four nights
(4 rooms, 1 bed in each, shared bath, kitchen, living room)
Guests may register up to four people per suite.

RV PARKING

$50 per RV for four nights
(no hook-ups or dumping available; shower facilities in Fieldhouse)

LINEN RENTAL

$40 per set (twin sheets, pillow, pillowcase, blanket, 2 bath and hand towels, 1 washcloth). Limited supply. Available for guests traveling by plane or from out of state.

REGISTRATION CHECK-IN/CHECKOUT

All attendees check in at Lecture Central, located in Smothers parking lot. Those staying on campus will receive their keys and linens at that time.
